PROGRESSIVE FACULTY ENRICHES THE SCHOOL PROGRAM

Although the three R's are still an important function in learning, they bear little resemblance to the three R's of the little red school house.

To keep abreast of modern trends in education, faculty members attend work shops and professional meetings in their areas of instruction.

The curriculum allows a student to study math for four years, foreign language for four years, science for four years, and requires a student to study English for four years. Vocational classes in business (typing, shorthand and bookkeeping), home economics, carpentry, and agriculture. Shop and mechanical drawing also attract many students.

ACTIVITIES

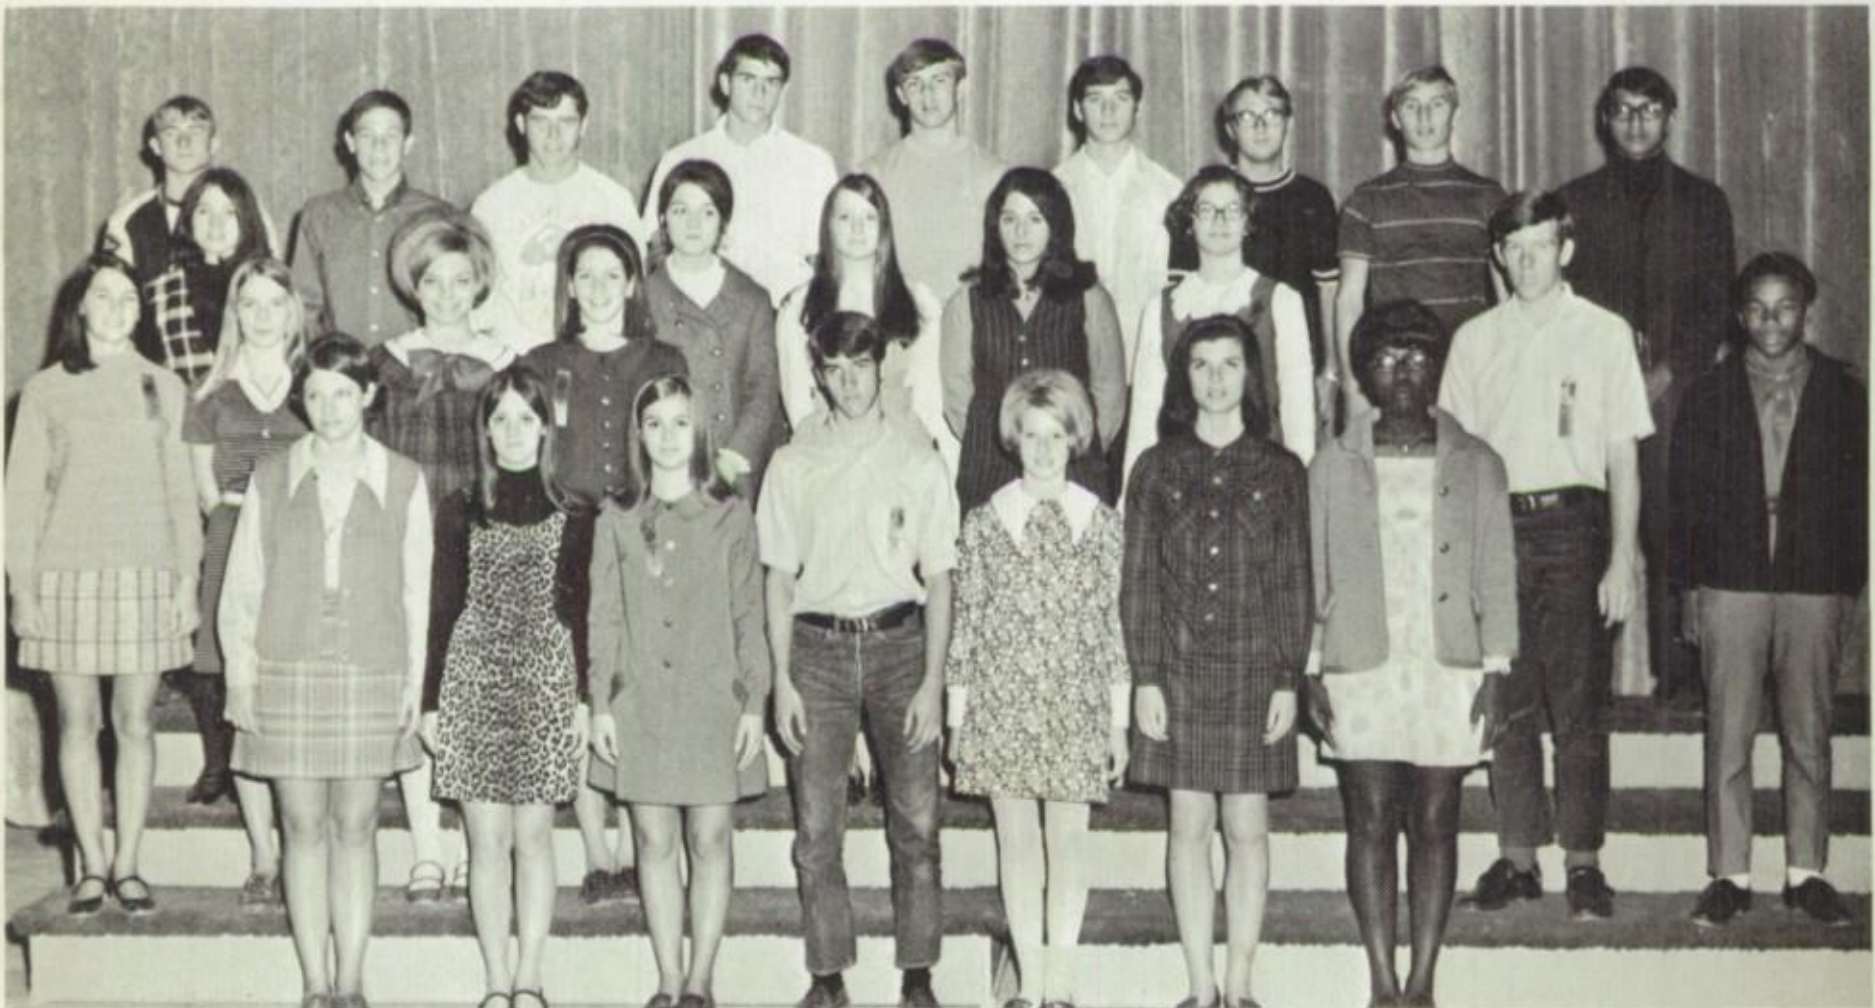

Student Council Sponsors

We protest the Idabel Warriors! This was the cry sponsored by the student council in a march downtown the Friday morning after Thanksgiving. The protestors must have exerted some pressure because the Tigers were victorious in that night's game — the first round of state play-offs. Besides the yearly duties of sponsoring dances, school assemblies, Twirp Week, and Katcu-tal, this years student council assisted visitors from North Central Association who evaluated our school.

Band Struts In New Uniforms

The pride of Wewoka, directed by Chelsea Cook added music and pep to the 1969-70 football season. Members of the band, practicing as early as 7:30 A.M. to prepare their shows presented half-time performances at the football games and also played for pep assemblies. All that work paid off, however, as the band received many honors including a superior rating in field marching during annual Band Day.

Other activities included a parade at Ada and Edmond, All-District Band and Edmond Festival, District contest, State Contest and the annual spring concert in May.

The band's biggest fans are the Band Boosters. Band parents and others interested in the Band compose the club, which helps raise money for the band and handles all publicity. Band Boosters also helped pay for transportation for band trips.

Darlene Lester, drum major of the band, holds the trophy representing a win at district Band Contest.

Aside from high school activities, the band plays for civic organizations. Here the band is marching downtown, boosting the spirits of all Wewokans.

Thirty-nine strong FHA girls put in practice the skills they learn in home-making classes. A home maker participating in community service is a belief held by members. They sent clothes and toys to the Miracle Hill Home for boys and girls at Christmas time. They also sent these boys and girls a Thanksgiving turkey.

A highlight of FHA activities is the installation of officers. This year the officers were installed in a beautiful ceremony at the Methodist Church with FFA officers installing the girls.

WINNING THIRD in the annual homecoming parade was the sophomore float. Gary Southerland is shown guiding it down main street.

Just before he closes his eye for a summer's rest, the Tiger glimpses another class marching through the doors of WHS for the last time as students.

As he drowsily dreams in the warm June sun, the Tiger recalls the year gone by. He remembers the hectic first days of school with students trying to locate a class or change a schedule. He remembers the great football season, especially the Holdenville game that proved not even a tornado could stay his Tiger's spirit. He remembers the pride he felt in his students and teachers when they were evaluated by the North Central Association of High Schools and Colleges. He remembers the plucky basketball team and their successful season. He remembers the scholars in national and state honor societies, speech contests, and year book assemblies.

With the sights and sounds of these happy memories locked in his heart, the Tiger's eye closes on the year '69 and '70.
